Everydayness

Author: Emilie Townes

. . and so we begin
for some of us gathered here

this is a time that is familiar yet even in the somewhat comfort of the known

there lurks the unknown
we can know certain things about this new academic year that is dawning

but we can never know what kind of class we will have because new configurations of students

reading
other source materials

keep even the known in the category of “adventure”

Issue Season: Winter
Issue Year: 2006
Issue Title: Seize the Day: Vocation, Calling, Work
Article Tags:
Vocation
Is this a poem?:
Yes
Send to Archives?:
Yes
Sunday, January 19, 2014 - 11:45pm