WEDNESDAY, February 1st noon-1pm (Private Dining Room)
Brown Bag Lunch with Vanderbilt History Professor Dyan Elliot

“Her most recent book, Proving Woman: Female Spirituality and Inquisitional Culture in the Later Middle Ages (2004) traces how the adoption of the inquisitional procedure for assessing women's religiosity led to an increasing blurring of the categories of sanctity and heresy, setting the stage for the witch hunts of the early modern period. Her current projects are on marriage as a template for structuring medieval life and thought and on the late medieval crisis of authenticity occasioned by the church's encounter with dualism.”
