

To Rose Day, who knew my potential from the very beginning

and

To Eddie Day, whose presence lives within my work despite his physical absence

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This work would not have been possible without the love and support of many people. I am grateful foremost for my academic mentor and advisor, Victor Anderson. He has taught me more for which I could never sufficiently give credit. He has shown me by example the importance of pursuing excellence in scholarship. For this, I am grateful. Each of the members of my dissertation committee, Ted Smith, Melissa Snarr, and Lewis Baldwin, has provided professional guidance relative to my intellectual and vocational interests. I also appreciate their support of my professional endeavors as I finished this manuscript.

I also am grateful for my experience of loving community with key persons in my Vanderbilt community. They include: Tamura Lomax, Asante Todd, Charles Bowie, Brandon McCormick, Monique Moultrie, Nichole Phillips, Amy Steele, Kim Russaw, Kimberley Peeler, and Christophe Ringer. Each of them has served as my conversational partners and friends who have encouraged me every step of the way. You guys are the best. I also want to thank Stacey Floyd-Thomas for her unequivocal support of my professional endeavors as I worked hard to complete this degree.

No one has been more important to me than the support of my family. To my mother, Connie Woods, she is my greatest fan and my best friend. I also appreciate my father, Wilbur Day, for his unending support and love that reminds me that “daddy’s little girl can do anything!” I love my sister Audrey Austin and family. I also thank key “church family” friends for their unconditional support: Jimmy Smith and family as well as Timothy Bond and family.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
DEDICATION .....	ii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS .....	iv
INTRODUCTION.....	1
 Chapter
I. EXPANDING METHODS IN WOMANIST ETHICS: CRITICAL SOCIAL THEORY .....	10
Womanist Theo-ethical Discourse and Black Women’s Poverty .....	11
Critical Social Theory as “Ideology Critique” .....	16
Toward Prospects of Thriving.....	35
Summary .....	39
II. THE MOYNIHAN REPORT AND ITS CRITICS: THE LIBERAL AIMS OF THE GREAT SOCIETY .....	41
The Progressive Liberalism of the Great Society and Its War on Poverty.....	43
Black Feminists, Womanists, and The Report: A Problem of Pathology?.....	51
Black Neo-Conservatives & Liberal Ideals of the Great Society.....	69
Summary .....	79
III. THE INCREASING SIGNIFICANCE OF CLASS ANALYSIS: FREE MARKET IDEOLOGY & A BLACK URBAN UNDERCLASS.....	82
Critique of Free-Market Ideology & Its Neo-Liberal Interests .....	83
The Black Urban Underclass: Race vs. Class Debate .....	93
Historical Shifts Toward a Post-Industrial Political Economy .....	99
A Gendered Analysis of a Black Urban Underclass .....	108
Summary .....	122
IV. TOWARD THE CONDITIONS FOR THE POSSIBILITY OF THRIVING: POOR URBAN BLACK WOMEN AS “CONCRETE OTHERS”.....	126
Radical Deliberative Democracy: The Standpoint of the Concrete Other .....	127

Substantiating the “Concrete Other”: A Return to the Source .....	137
Conditions for the Possibility of Thriving: Recognition and Redistribution .....	149
Summary .....	163
V. CONCLUSION: IMPLICATIONS OF THIS STUDY.....	165
BIBLIOGRAPHY .....	177