What if This Is as Good as It Gets?

Sarratt Cinema

John Lachs, Centennial Professor of Philosophy

All our lives, we have believed that the future holds great promise, that things will be better tomorrow than they are today. This makes for great dissatisfaction with how things stand and a powerful drive to improve conditions. At some point in life, however, we reach the stage where things will not get better. Will we think that our lives are good enough? Can we ever be satisfied?

2:15–3:15 p.m.

The College Halls Experience

Dean's Residence on The Ingram Commons
This presentation will reflect upon the first years of The Martha Rivers Ingram Commons at Vanderbilt and give a glimpse into the new KISSAM College Halls project. A tour of The Ingram Commons follows.

2:15–3:15 p.m.

A Look Inside the World of College Admissions

Sarratt 189

John O. Gaines, director of undergraduate admissions; Janet Schneider (BA'73, MAT'76), director of college counseling at University School of Nashville; Walt (BA'80) and Lynn (BA'83) Kunau, current parents

Applying to college is one of the most exciting and nerve-racking times for students and their parents. This panel of alumni and admissions officers will share firsthand knowledge about navigating the waters of today's world of college admissions.

Co-sponsored by Parents and Family Programs

2:30–4 p.m.

NROTC Third Annual National Security Symposium

Langford Auditorium

General and Mrs. Richard B. Myers will be the keynote speaker at this year's event, commemorating the tenth anniversary of 9/11.

As the then-chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Myers was at the center of the Bush administration's strategy of promoting democratic movements and human rights as one element of the U.S. war on terror. Mrs. Myers has been an advocate of women's rights in the Middle East and elsewhere, and she will

Vanderbilt Athletics Update with Vice Chancellor David Williams

Sarratt Cinema

Vanderbilt sports are reaching new heights and the future is bright. Nobody knows the program better than Vice Chancellor David Williams. He'll give you an insider's look at everything from new head football coach James Franklin to the baseball team's first appearance at the College World Series.

3:30–4:30 p.m.

Getting In and Out of College: Policy, Geography, Institutions and Individuals

Rand Function Room

Stella M. Flores, assistant professor of public policy and higher education
Race, ethnicity and socioeconomic status remain increasingly important factors in predicting the odds of college enrollment and completion in the U.S. in these early stages of the 21st century. However, does where you come from dictate where you end up on the educational ladder? The lecture will present emerging results on policy initiatives related to key curricular and demographic transformations in select state colleges and universities. Of particular relevance is the role that precollege characteristics play in predicting college completion.

Vanderbilt for life

"I was a student for a few short years, but I'm Vanderbilt for life."

Vanderbilt for life means different things to different people. For Quings, it might be travel to exceptional destinations with longtime friends or a faculty member. For students and recent graduates, career advice from experienced alumni might be important. You'll find all this and much more in the programs offered by your Vanderbilt Alumni Association.

Every Vanderbilt graduate has a lifelong connection to the school and we strengthen those connections with educational programs, networking opportunities, travel and even Reunion. Your quarterly e-newsletter, Alumni exclusive, the VUconnect online community and the chapter communications that keep you informed all come from your alumni association.

Find out more at www.vanderbilt.edu/alumni—and find out what it really means to be Vanderbilt for life.

Alumni Association

"Networking is more important than ever, so Career Moves is perfect for me. That's why I'm Vanderbilt for life."

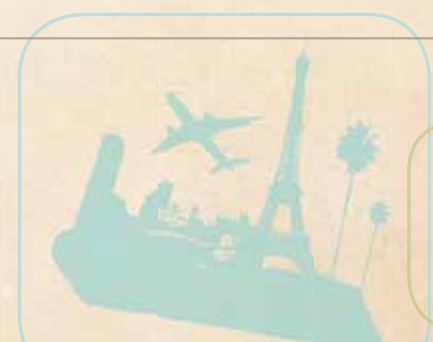

"Moving to a new city was scary, but with my local alumni chapter, I made new friends in no time. That's why I'm Vanderbilt for life."

"...gave me lifelong friends and tools for success. That's why I'm Vanderbilt for life."

"I'm grateful for the friends, career and experiences I'll never forget. That's why I'm Vanderbilt for life."
