Everydayness

Author: Emilie Townes

. . . and so we begin for some of us gathered here this is a time that is familiar yet even in the somewhat comfort of the known there lurks the unknown we can know certain things about this new academic year that is dawning but we can never know what kind of class we will have because new configurations of students reading other source materials

keep even the known in the category of "adventure"
